

Travertine-Vein-Cut-Honed-and-Filled

Travertine Tiles are cut from blocks either along or across the natural vein formations in the rock. According to the cutting style, travertine tiles are classified as vein-cut or cross-cut. Tiles are then honed (semi polished) and natural holes on the surface are filled to give a smooth and contemporary feeling to the tiles. Vein cut is not as common as cross cut in the market and is a rather specialist design. Vein cut finish fits especially to large scale cladding projects as well as indoor or outdoor walling and flooring. At some sources Vein Cut Travertine is sold as Murano Travertine. Please give us a call to discuss your stone tile flooring and walling projects. We can suggest the best stone tiles to fit to your bathroom, kitchen, hall, living room, conservatory, garden or patio for modern building decorations or period building renovations. We can arrange delivery of your orders from our warehouse in Rainham Essex (next to London) to anywhere in England, Wales and Scotland as well as continental Europe.
